

Splashes in a Spoon

Daniel Christie and Andrew Frazier

October, 2001

These two photos show two stages in the splash of a milk drop into a shallow pool of milk in a spoon. The top photo shows the splash crown just beginning to form. The bottom photo shows the crown at a later time after more liquid has been fed into the walls.

Technical data

Camera: Nikon Coolpix 990 (digital)

Aperture: f/11

Shutter: 1 s

ISO: 400

Resolution: Fine

Lighting: Vivitar 283 flash

Flash duration: 30 μ s